Yes, Virginia

Christmas may be over, but Virginia's message of hope is worth reflecting upon as we begin a new year.

This yuletide treasure has been featured on Copresco's website since 1994.

It's a child's 1897 inquiry about Santa Claus that puts the whole season into proper perspective.

Is There a Santa Claus?

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus" is a phrase from an editorial called "Is There a Santa Claus?"

The editorial appeared in the September 21, 1897, edition of The New York Sun.

Eight-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon wrote a letter to the Sun's editor and the quick response was printed as an unsigned editorial.

World Renowned

The work of veteran newsman Francis Pharcellus Church has since become history's most reprinted newspaper editorial, appearing in part or whole in dozens of languages in books, movies, and other editorials, and on posters and stamps.

I stopped believing in Santa Claus when my mother took me to see him in a department store, and he asked for my autograph.—Shirley Temple

When they were little, my kids asked how Santa Claus got into our apartment, since we didn't have a fireplace. I told them he just comes in through a hole in my pocket.

Marriage is a two-way street. That's why there are so many head-on collisions.

Two professional chess players were in the lobby of a swank hotel bragging about their favorite victories, when the manager abruptly asked them to leave. "But why?" they protested. "We aren't hurting anyone." "It's my hotel, and if there's anything I can't stand," the manager huffed, "it's chess nuts boasting in an open foyer.

Last year I decided to play it safe and bought my wife a gift certificate. She still wasn't satisfied. She said it was the wrong size.

Q: Why is Christmas just like a day at the office?

A: You do all the work and the fat guy in the suit gets the credit.

I got my wife a refrigerator for Christmas. I can't wait to see her face light up when she opens it.

I could tell my bank was in trouble.

Their last slogan was "Money isn't everything."

I'm trying to organize a Hide and Seek tournament. But good players are really hard to find.

Area 51 Air Force personnel were surprised to see a small plane land at their "secret" base. Security guards immediately impounded it and hauled the pilot into an interrogation room.

The shaken man explained that he got lost leaving Las Vegas and spotted the base just as he was out of fuel. They held him overnight, inspected his plane, and after conducting a thorough background check, concluded that he really was lost. After gassing up his airplane and giving him a threatening "you-did-not-see-this-base" briefing, they sent him on his way.

To the total disbelief of the Air Force, the same plane showed up again the next day. As armed MPs surrounded the plane, the same pilot jumped out and said, "Do anything you want to me, but my wife is in the plane, and you have to tell her where I was last night!"

I tried to sue somebody for calling me clumsy, but I dropped the charges.
